A Blessing for Weddings, Handfastings and Sacred Unity Ceremonies

As you take my hand I look into your eyes and know that we have come to a place in our journey that was forever destined to be.

We are joined in hearts and minds as one. We are but one soul, divine twins of true expression.

You are my sacred Rose and as I take your hand today, bonding with you, we tie the knot of togetherness.

May the rainbow ribbons we adorn ourselves with symbolise the many pathways we shall walk throughout the streams of time that lead to that which we manifest in our mind's eye, together.

Our union of one plus one makes three and the energetic living intelligence we have birthed takes the form of the Goddess Aphrodite, the bestower of love and good fortune in matters of the heart.

Cupid, aimed his arrow and we were the willing recipients of the directed, focus that is true love.

The white roses you hold mirror the purity of your soul as this day you are cleansed, as the virgin re-born and are given to me, he who shall keep you, protect you, honour you and cherish you all the days that our love shall last.

We know, our love, moves through the fractals and cycles of time into infinite eternity and that we shall come together again and again, as one, re-experiencing our union over and over.

Why do we cycle this expression, in different forms, through different flavours within the repeated endless endeavour that is the pathway of source incarnate?

It is because of the togetherness we create through our physical separation for none get so far from the other and thus none can get so close to the other.

More that death do us part but beyond boundaries we project our expanded awareness through the quantum world, no barrier shall hold us back.

Together we move into Ascension as the Twin Flame union and hold hands through every energetic that we may manifest in our physical lives.

We know, that as a unified coupling, we shall touch the depths of an emotional landscape that no other shall every touch.

As we integrate and transmute the deep learning of self that the intense emotions bring...we grow, together, walking the same path.

Speak now, Goddess Aphrodite, My always Rose.

You speak the truth, handsome warrior that you are. I know, that as we exchange these silver bands of unity you shall hold high the silver sword of truth and light and stand by my side in all that I do.

I knew, when I met you in this life, that you were my everything. We are the realisation of a thread of energy moving back, back, back through our ascenstral lines. I dared not hope that I was right, that you were he that I had waited for, for so long.

Yet you held me and you loved me and your laughter opened my heart to the true awareness that you were everything I had always wanted and everything that I had waited for.

No one sees what we are save us. We are encased within a Rose Ray Orb of divine love, the magenta pink glow of the higher heart.

Yes indeed, I am Aphrodite and I stand before you as every female for I embody all female form.

I am the divine feminine, the muse, the receptivity of all things and I give to you, my hero of the heart, the stars, the moon and the universe itself for I am she.

I am your inspiration the one who presents beyond Mother, Sister, Daughter and steps forward as your wife.

To have and to hold this day I accept your sacred promise as I give you mine.

I am bonded always to you my love. The happiness I hold within, the golden glow of bliss charged love, sustains me throughout time and space for the female wants always to be cherished and nurtured so she may heal, inspire and divine.

As I hold your hand in sacred union this day, I know, I am blessed for all eternity for I am eternity and never before have I seen this as closely as this day that we are wed, before the
